BANDIT AND STOLEN CAR SEIZED BY MOTOR COPS

TINLEY PARK MOTOR COP AIDS IN IMPORTANT CAPTURE

Motorcycle policeman, Elmer Keuch of Tinley Park figured in an exciting race and bandit capture on the Dixie Highway between Chicago Heights and Homewood last Saturday night. While engaged in patrolling the Highway Motor cycle cop Keuch and his partner saw a car with bright lights and after a short chase overtook the car and arrested the driver. They also noticed that the car bore no license plates. Mr. Keuch's partner told the former he would get in the car with the driver and that he should follow closely on his motorcycle which he did.

The auto driver appeared very nervous and kept looking back. The cop that was riding with him also turned about to see why the driver was looking, when the latter hit him with the butt of a revolver in the back of the head, knocking him unconscious. The autoist then sped up the car and tried to get away, but Motorcycle cop Keuch thought that something had happened to his partner so kept right up close with the car. The driver suddenly jumped out of the car and ran across a field towards the forest preserves near the village of Homewood. Mr. Keuch at once opened fire on the fleeing man and shot him in the leg which ended his flight. He was taken to Blue Island and later to Chicago where it was learned he had served two terms in prison and was the ring leader of a gang of highway bandits. The car he was driving when arrested was found to have been a stolen one. Both Motorcycle cops were highly complimented by their superiors for their good catch.

TO ORLAND TOWN VOTERS:

I solicit your votes and support for re-election at the annual town election next Tuesday, April 1st to the office of town clerk. I am seeking this office again on the record that I have established since I have held this office.

B. F. Sippel.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO TOWN OF FRANKFORT VOTERS:

I am a candidate for re-election to the office of highway commissioner of Frankfort township on the Independent ticket. On my past record as highway commissioner and on what I have accomplished for this township, I respectfully solicit your support and votes at the town election on Tuesday, April 1, 1924.

THE REASON WHY.

(Editor's Note) The reason why Tinley Park failed to have any local news last week was due to the fact that the items came too late and had to be crowded out due to a large demand for advertising space. But oh boy, this week we have Tinley Park news by the yard. Turn to the inside pages and be convinced.

KRAPP BROS., COMPLETE

MODERN FLATS

Krapp Bros., have finished two modern flats above their hard store and are doing their part to make Mokena grow by providing real up-to-date places to live. They have already rented one flat to Mrs. Wm Hoffman who is going to open up a dress making establishment.

The flats in question are fully equipped with electric light, city water, etc.

KRAPP BROS., TO HOLD A BIG DEMONSTRATION

Krapp Bros., proprietors of the Mokena Hardware Company are going to put on a paint and stove demonstration at their store next Tuesday and Wednesday. Everyone is invited to attend.

TO THE VOTERS OF BREMEN:

Don't forget the day, April 1, is election day and you should do your duty as a citizen and cast your vote for the man best fitted for the office.

The office of highway commissioner is one of the most important offices in the township of Bremen and should be filled by the man who has done his duty to the people, who has been ever at their command and has done more for the township than his opponents can ever do. Why? Because he has the backing of the President of the county board which is absolutely necessary in order to obtain county aid as to use of machinery, etc.

He cannot make you impossible promises as his opponents are doing because he knows that they can not be kept. He can only do what is possible and that is to be impartial to all.

Before you cast your vote for any candidate investigate his record, his integrity, his honesty and ability then you can conscientiously cast your vote as a true citizen.

Sincerely,

John M. Bettenhausen.

Mrs. Chas. Gould, New Lenox, Dies

Mrs. Charles Gould well known New Lenox resident died on Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ceward Batson.

She suffered a paralytic stroke a year ago and never recovered from the effects of it.

Mrs. Gould was born in West Bradeley, England in 1845. She was married to Charles Gould in England in 1866. To this union were born 9 children of whom one is dead. In 1898 they immigrated to America settling in New Lenox.

Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Ceward Batson, Fred, Herbert and Henry of New Lenox, Mrs. Lena Wise of Lockport, Mrs. Lizzie Button and Mrs. Lucy Batson of Joliet, Mrs. Anna Bethel of Iowa.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon from the late home to the New Lenox M. E. church Rev. Hamilton officiating. Burial in Maplewood cemetery New Lenox.

New Lenox to Get Rural Route

A new R. F. D. route will be established May 16, out of New Lenox.

The new delivery will follow the following route: Starting from the New Lenox postoffice, it will bear east one and one-quarter miles, thence southwest on Lincoln highway to Owen's corner, thence south one and a half miles, thence west two and a quarter miles, thence north one mile, thence west two and a quarter miles, thence south one mile, thence east one mile, thence north one and a half miles, thence east one and a quarter miles, thence north a half mile to the Lincoln highway, thence retrace one-quarter mile west, thence north to Borges corner, thence west to Nelson's corner, thence north one half mile to Busch Bros., cross roads and retrace back to Nelson's corner, thence west to approximately the center of section 9, and then retrace to Cooper's corner and south a half mile to the New Lenox post office.

The establishment of this route marks the culmination of efforts begun early last year by Postmaster Bolton of Joliet. Some years ago a petition was signed by the patrons of the route now to serve them asking the postal department to establish a route but nothing came of the request at the time.

The new route is formed by taking off sections of R. F. D. Nos. 3, 4, 5 out of Joliet.

The carrier on the New Lenox route will receive $1,800 a year compensation and will be chosen by the postmaster at that office after passing a civil service examination.

South Gardner, South Sherman and South Elm streets, Joliet, which received city mail delivery five years ago, but which was discontinued because mail carriers had to cross private property, will be included in the new R. F. D. which is to be established out of New Lenox.

AN APPEAL TO THE VOTERS OF FRANKFORT TOWNSHIP

As election will soon be here I would like to have one more say to the voters of Frankfort township. I made a canvass of the township and I feel it is your duty to come out on Tuesday, April 1st and elect the man that you voters think is best for the interest of the township and the taxpayers. Service is what the people are asking for and if elected that is my aim to give you service at least expense.

Emil D. Cappel.

CIGARS AND GUM

The political situation is quite interesting in Orland. Cigars for men are passed out in untold numbers while the ladies are not forgotten, they being liberally supplied with gum.

Griffin Marshall, Marley Veteran Passes Beyond

Griffin Marshall, life long resident of New Lenox township and well known civil war veteran, died at his home in Marley Monday.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Marley church. Burial in Marshall cemetery.

Mr. Marshall was born Nov. 30, 1847, on the Marshall farm in New Lenox township, where he spent the most of his life.

He was a brother of the late Judge Albert O. Marshall and R. W. Marshall, former sheriff of Will county. Griffin Marshall was deputy sheriff for several years.

On December 21, 1872, he was married to Lucy L. Frye of Spencer. When he was 17 years old, he enlisted with Co. F. 138th regiment of Illinois volunteers at Springfield, and served till October 14, 1864, when he was discharged.

Surviving him are his widow, three sons, Edward, who lives on the farm, Jesse of Marley, the Rev. Chester Marshall of Forsythe, Mont. two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Storm, of Homer, and Mrs. Louise Cutter of Plainwell, Mich. He also has seven grandchildren.

With the passing of Mr. Marshall the ranks of the civil war veterans in New Lenox township and the surrounding country has been reduced to one, Millis Knickerbocker who is claimed by both New Lenox and Mokena, being the only living civil war veteran in this section.

POSTMASTERS KICKING

Fourth-class postmasters of Illinois are said to be more or less dissatisfied with the attitude and vote of Senator McCormick on a matter affecting their compensation.

When a postal bill was before the senate recently an amendment was offered providing for an increase of 15 per cent instead of 10 per cent in the income of such postmasters and to provide for an additional allowance of $50 per quarter where a post office is maintained in a room or building where no other business is transacted, as compensation for rent, heat and light.

The amendment was agreed to by the senate, but not through any aid from the senator from Illinois. Senator McCormick voted against it.

Verification of Senator McCormick's vote is found in the Congressional Record, Volume 58, on page 6728.

FRANKFORT TO VOTE ON SCHOOL BOND ISSUE SAT.

Frankfort is going to try to get the taxpayers of district 157 to pass on the $23,500 bond issue for a new school house at a special election to be held on Saturday of this week. Those who are opposed to the bond issue say the reason they are so opposed is because the board of directors have refused to have a citizens building committee confer with them on the school building proposition and that so long as this was the case the bond issue would be voted down for the parties so objecting feel the taxpayers of the district should have more to say than just to pass the bond issue.

FRANKFORT SCHOOL

TAX MONEY TIED UP

The Frankfort school board is in receipt of a communication from county superintendent of schools August Maue, that he has been requested by the state school superintendent of schools to withhold the school tax money amounting to $1000 a year and not to make any payments of same until a new school is erected as demanded by the state.

Herman Lorenz Makes Statement In Hoffman Case

The News-Bulletin is in the receipt of the following letter from Herman Lorenz relative to the Hoffman case at Mokena.

Editor News-Bulletin:

"Several weeks ago there appeared in the News-Bulletin a little saying 'If you cannot say anything good about your fellow man, you better keep your mouth shut' and the correspondent who wrote that said something which we should all observe.

Herman Lorenz, who farmed around Mokena for over twenty years left the farm a month ago to reside in Joliet and has been in a lot of trouble beginning with the third day after he moved.

As every one knows, Wm. Hoffman who rented his farm disappeared from home and left not only his family, but also myself in a great mix-up.

For a month nothing had been done to clear things up as all waited for Mr. Hoffman's return, but this proving in vain, I and Mrs. Hoffman agreed to make a settlement. I took back all that Mr. Hoffman bought on my sale and gave back every penny he paid for it.

This isto show that Mrs. Hoffman is not loosing a cent and that I am not a crook and do not want to be a woman out of her money. This remark was overheard by me and a few good friends last week. It was quite a blow to me and my family so I take this opportunity to tell these people or trouble makers that they are quite badly mistaken and better sweep the dirt from their own door. Rather than to have it said Mrs. Hoffman lost their hard earned money because I was a crook, I am willing to loose any amount myself.

Others who are looking for something to gossip about say that I made Hoffman pay to much for the things he bought at the sale. Now everyone was treated alike at the sale and if anyone paid to much for anything they bought that is their own hard luck, for I am sure I could not go to every one and tell them they were paying to much for this or that and if Mr. Hoffman did overbid himself that is not a fault of anyone else.

I trusted Mr. Hoffman and would of got along fine with him had no other people butted in but would of left him alone and minded their own business.

But it is too late now the dirt work is done. It is bad enough to be in the midst of trouble, but even worse and a good deal worse to be called a crook for a reason that I do not know.

If there is anyone in or around Mokena to whom I have never paid all I owed to them they are welcome to come to me about it for I aim to be straight with the world."

ORLAND TOWN POLITICS GETTING VERY EXCITING

The annual town election to be held next Tuesday gives promise of being a red hot one from present indications. An error was made in a recent issue of the News-Bulletin and we hasten to correct same. It was stated that Christ Steinhager was running for assessor. However Christ is only running the farm this year and Martin Smith, the present incumbent who has held the office for the past 18 years to the satisfaction of the taxpayers of Orland township, seeks re-election.

Mr. Smith says: "The personal property tax in Orland is not any higher than in any surrounding towns and lower, if anything than in many other towns."

According to rumors Albert Habenicht who is a candidate for tax collector is making a strong race and will be quite a factor in next Tuesday's election.

BREMEN TOWNSHIP FARMERS TO RAISE BEET SUGAR; 35 ACRES START

As was stated in last week's News Bulletin a move is on foot to interest the farmers of Bremen township to raise sugar beets.

Last Friday night a meeting was held at which Mr. Kemp and Frank Dickman of the Mid-West Sugar Co. of Riverdale were present and explained to the farmers present the excellent returns it is possible for them to derive from the beet sugar business. They were shown that last year some farmers received as high as $186 average per acre from sugar beets. The smallest average paid out was $133 per acre. The cultivation of sugar beets is said to be no more difficult and requires no more labor than raising corn. The Mid-West Sugar Company sells its sugar supply mostly to the famous Buente Company of Chicago.

The Mid-West Sugar Company is aiming to get the farmers of Bremen to put in at last 75 acres in sugar beets this year and after they see what success they have with the crop it is hoped that a larger acreage will be put in next year.

At the meeting Friday night 35 acres were signed up for sugar beet raising, the farmers signing up and will be pioneers in sugar beet raising in this township are: Conrad Andres, Cleveland Hollstein, Wm. Andres and Mr. Kemp.

CONRAD BETTENHAUSEN OF TINLEY PARK GOES TO EUROPE

Conrad Bettenhausen left Monday on a trip to Germany to visit with relatives. He expects to be away for two months and upon his return trip he will bring his niece with him.

PASTOR FROM GERMANY SPEAKS AT TINLEY PARK

Rev. H. Meyer, District Superintendent of the German M. E. church in the Dresden District in Germany, was the guest of Rev. Zeuner of the local German M. E. church last Sunday and preached a fine sermon at this church last Sunday. He is a delegate to the General Conference of this denomination to be held at Springfield, Mass., the first of May.

MOKENA HAS CHAMPION SPELLERS IN CONTEST

A spelling contest is on between the schools of the county and Mokena has a number of champion spellers who will compete with other schools for the prize. The best speller in the senior room of the Mokena school is to go to Frankfort the first part of April. The best speller in each township will go to Joliet. The winner at Joliet will receive a $25 watch.

The best spellers in Mokena are: First John Hentsch; second Leon Kolber; third Clyde Knudson. Leon Kolber is a close second and may yet win here.

Here is hoping that the Mokena students will put in their best ticks so that they will be able to bring the bacon home.

ORLAND NOTES IN BRIEF

We hear with regret that Mrs. George Yunker's father died in an auto accident in Chicago on March 19th.

The confirmation class of Christ Lutheran church is going thru the final examination for confirmation. On April 6th the public examination will be held at 10:30 a. m.

Christ Luth. church service next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in German. At 7:30 p. m., Rev. R. Geffert of Harvey will conduct the services.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

YOUR IMAGINATION

GIVE your imagination free rein, especially if it is of the constructive kind, taking you to new heights beyond those of yesterday. The greatest achievements of yesterday, if we are to progress, must be outdone today.

An original thought is but one more step towards another, destined, perhaps, to revolutionize accepted standards and set at naught much of our boasted knowledge with its many deficiencies of precise information.

By imagination the countries of the world have been brought closer together. News that was once brought by mounted couriers riding day and night, is now flashed through the air by means of electricity, reaching to all parts of the world and surpassing in its flight the speed of light. When Samuel Morse dreamed of the telegraph he annihilated distance and brought the poles of the earth together.

Thousands of miles from the forecasting station, millions of people listen daily to the radio carrying its thrilling music and stirring voices through invisible paths of air.

These modern wonders, mystical, startling, had their birth in the imagination of men who continued to pay court to fancy, while their narrow visioned friends jeered and mocked.

Do not criticize the boy who goes castle-building, or prefers by choice to dwell apart from others.

Manifest interest in his thoughts and give him encouragement.

You cannot surmise where a boy of this type may be leading, or what in future years he may do for the uplift of the world and the comforts and delights of its peoples.

That the boys of today are destined to surpass the boys of yesterday, may be accepted as a foregone conclusion; indeed, it can be counted upon as a certainty.

The result of their imagination, heightened by better schooling, and let us hope greater encouragement, will be seen in the next generation in the revelation of things which the visionist of today has not yet dreamed.

Every analysis of what has been done in the past reveals the probability of something more startling awaiting the imaginative brains of the boys of today. Give them an opportunity to show their ingenuity. Encourage their imagination and cheer them on!

A WOMAN IN THE HOUSE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A WOMAN in the house, to me, is like the sunlight on the sea, is like the roses by the road, is like the laughter with the load.

As stars make beautiful the night, And flowers, gardens give delight, Yes, all that beauty does for you A woman in the house will do.

A woman in the house will make An altar there for hearts that ache, Will build a shrine amid life's sin To worship God, and ask Him in.

For you who wander, you who weep, A woman in the house will keep A candle burning evermore— She is a lighthouse on the shore.

A woman in the house is like The sun's declining rays that strike Your windows when the day is old And turn your window panes to gold.

A man may build a house of his; A woman in the house it is, Through joy and sorrow, dawn and gloom, That "makes his house and makes it home."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE MIGHTY REDWOODS

"Splendid news," said the mighty Redwood trees.

And the little young trees which were sprouting up from stumps and roots about whispered,

"May we hear the news?"

"Ah, yes," the great Redwood trees answered. "You know we belong to one of the greatest forests in the world."

"People come from all over to see us, and we look our best and our mightiest because we do not want to disappoint them. And because, too, we want to always keep the great traditions of the Redwood trees."

"We always want to stand straight and tall, to show how we can resist fire when we are in our prime. We like to have them know that we grow to be very old—often much over a thousand years old."

"We are fully grown trees when we are sixty years of age or even when we are fifty. Then we have our height and strength."

"You, our little trees are growing up too. And this is the news we have to tell."

"The people have decided that when some of the members of our family must be taken for lumber such parts as are chopped down will be filled with shade trees so as to protect, and help in letting the little trees of our family grow.

"We Look Our Best."

"For they would miss our shade and our help and the people will see that they are given assistance."

"Then great forests of us will be saved so that people will see us."

"For years many have heard of us who have never seen us but who some day will do their very best to come to us. We cannot go to them."

"We will look our best, and we will wait years and years for them."

"But we cannot go to them."

"Perhaps one of the reasons we grow to be so old is because a Redwood great, great, grand-father years ago said,

"Let us wait another year. Perhaps more people will have the chance to see us then."

"And so, perhaps, the habit of staying around a long, long time, looking our best and our noblest, was started in that way."

"Ah, yes, it is splendid news, for now everything will be done so that Redwood forests will always be here."

"People will say,

"Oh, those splendid old giant trees have been saved!"

"And they will rejoice."

"They will say,

"See how the young trees are being helped and how replanting is done where lumber has been needed from some of the others."

"And they will rejoice."

"For it would never, never do if the people came from all over the world and said,

"Where are the great Redwood forests we've come so many miles to see and which we've been waiting years for the chance to come and see?"

And should find that anything had happened."

"So this new arrangement is perfect. And it's sure—for it has been carried out for some little time now. We are so sure about it now that we talk about it as news."

"We even wait to make sure of our news! We never believe in hurrying. Perhaps that is why we live so long—we don't wear ourselves all out in a little bit of a time."

And in the great Redwood forests there was happiness.

Her Prayer

Gladys had lost two of her front teeth and for her comfort she had been told that God would give her new ones. She was to take part in some Sunday school exercises and in spite of all her wishing the new teeth refused to put in an appearance. One night after Gladys had retired, her mother entering the room quietly, she saw the child kneeling beside her bed.

"Oh, God," she was saying, "if you haven't got my new teeth done won't you please drop my old ones down again until after next Sunday?"

Too Much for Stutterer

A master in a large school room called upon Smith, who stutters, to parse the sentence: "The propinquity of the porcupine made pot-shooting at the hippopotamus virtually impossible."

Smith gave a wild glance around the room and said: "Professor, now ain't t-that a d-d-uce of a question to ask me?"

JOYS OF MOTHERHOOD

Often Prevented by Female Trouble

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brings Joy to Homes by Removing Cause of Trouble

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was working after I got married and the young lady who worked next to me asked me if I had any intentions of having a child. I told her I would be the happiest woman on earth if I could become a mother, but I always had terrible cramps, backaches and headaches. She then told me of a woman she knew who took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the same troubles and it helped her greatly. I took about a half bottle and found that the following month I did not suffer any pain, so I kept on taking it. I have a wonderful baby boy six months old and he is as strong and fat as any one could wish a baby to be. I still take the Vegetable Compound regularly because I have looked fine all the time and felt fine and my mother told me that was the reason. I will be glad to have you publish my testimonial with my name and address."—Mrs. EDWARD WERBECK, 1824 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.

and I was afraid that I could never have any more, for I had been told that I never could have a living child for I was not strong enough to carry one. But they were mistaken and I had a nice baby boy and now I have five children. I can't praise your medicine enough. My youngest sister has taken it, too, and praises it."—Mrs. G. L. WISWELL, 43 Mechanics Row, Auburn, Maine.

These cases are similar to many others reported to us. It is well for women to carefully consider such statements and to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. It may bring great joy to your home.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a medicine for women.

EVERYDAY FOODS

WHEN a few pieces of chicken are left over from the Sunday dinner, cut the meat into small pieces removing all the bones. A cupful will make a nice dish with macaroni. Prepare a rich white sauce, using two tablespoonfuls of butter melted and two tablespoonfuls of flour; mix well and add one cupful of milk with such seasonings as one likes. Take a cupful of cooked macaroni, put a layer of macaroni in the bottom of a buttered dish, cover with a layer of chicken, then a layer of white sauce. Repeat until all are used. Over the top sprinkle a thick covering of buttered crumbs and bake until brown.

Soft Molasses Cookies.

Take one cupful of molasses, one and three-fourths teaspoonfuls of soda, one cupful of sour milk, one-half cupful of shortening, two teaspoonfuls of ginger, one teaspoonful of salt and flour to roll as soft as possible. Chill before rolling and less flour will be needed.

Have You This Habit?

By Margaret Morison

DAVID SWIFT

"TRY David Swift," said the senior member of the banking firm of Smith, Jones & Brown to his friend; and accordingly after lunch the two men took the baffling slip of yellow paper to Mr. Smith's official decipherer of mixed code cables.

"That man eight years ago was earning two dollars a day at unskilled labor; now I pay him ten thousand a year," said the great man as he and his friend waited for the outcome over their cigars in the inner office. Then he told David Swift's story.

"Not so long ago we were actually losing money through delays in decoding messages that had been relayed from Hong Kong, or even sometimes London. That set me looking for a man who had what I call 'the habit of attack.' Well, one day after closing hour I stopped in to find a very important letter; there is just one man there working, and I told him what I was after. I admit that it seemed hopeless to me; but in ten minutes he had what I wanted."

"Now that's what I call 'attack.' I asked the head of our filing department about him next day. It seemed that the chief filing clerk's uncle had a big milk farm where eight years ago this young David Swift was a regular hand in summer—in winter he still went to high school. Eight years ago, the corn for the silo had all been cut except one big ten-acre field. That afternoon everyone was prophesying frost, the boss was away, and the men were contending that it was hopeless to start such a big job so late. But young David Swift's sporting blood was up; if three of them would help him, he said, he'd save the crop. Our clerk's uncle came back to find them cutting the last rows by moonlight, and he was so impressed by what David Swift had done that, when the boy graduated from his school the following spring, he got him a job with his nephew in our office. You see what I mean by his—what I call—'attack'."

Just then the door of the office opened and there entered a square built young man whose head and shoulders had the appearance of getting ahead of the rest of his body.

"You've given it up!" cried Mr. Smith's friend disappointedly. "It wasn't code at all, sir; simply a badly jumbled message," answered David Swift. "I think that's the reason they missed it at your office; they were looking for something hard."

As the door closed Smith turned to his friend: "Is ten thousand too high for this 'habit of attack'?" he asked triumphantly.

MELLON RATES BACK IN BILL

Senate Finance Committee Approves the Secretary's Normal and Surtax.

Washington.—The Mellon normal and surtax rates were approved unexpectedly by the senate finance committee. Taking advantage of the absence of Senator McCormick (Rep., Ill.) and Senator LaFollette (Rep., Wis.), the only two Republicans on the committee who have been considered against the Mellon surtax rate schedule, the committee approved the administration program by a vote of 8 to 7 in a straight party vote.

The Mellon normal and surtax rates as approved by the committee are as follows:

A normal tax of 3 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income and 6 per cent on the remainder of the net income, instead of 4 and 8 per cent, as in the present law.

Surtax rates commencing at 1 per cent on net income from $10,000 to $12,000; an additional 1 per cent for each $2,000 of net income up to $36,000; then 1 per cent additional for the next $4,000 of net income up to $40,000; and then 1 per cent additional for each $6,000 of net income up to a maximum of 25 per cent on the excess above $100,000.

Under the house bill the normal tax rate was 2 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income, 5 per cent on the next $4,000, and 6 per cent on the amount above $8,000.

Surtax rates under the house bill commenced at 1½ per cent on income between $10,000 and $12,000 and ran to a maximum of 37½ per cent on the amount in excess of $200,000.

Under the present law surtax rates start at 1 per cent on the amount of net income between $6,000 and $10,000 and run to a maximum of 50 per cent on the amount in excess of $200,000.

Women Who Bob Hair to Lose It, Editor Asserts

New York.—Bobbied hair is a sure means for causing baldness, and it won't be many years before the world is filled with bald headed women. Joseph Byrne, editor of a beauty magazine, said in addressing the annual convention of the American Master Hair Dressers' association. Milliners, he explained, to conform to present day hair styles, have been obliged to make head bands exceedingly tight to keep the hats on, resulting in the death of the hair. Mr. Byrne asserted that girls of the present generation would be bald before they reached maturity.

Shipping Quiz May Cost Big Sum, O'Connor Says

Washington.—Expenditure of a large amount of public funds may be necessary to compile data requested of the shipping board and fleet corporation by the shipping board investigating committee of the house, Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the board indicated to the committee. The expense of compiling with the request contained in one of the twenty-seven items alone would run between $300,000 and $400,000, he said.

Gravesend, England.—Eight persons were killed and three seriously injured on board the British steamer Matutina in a collision in the Thames estuary with the American steamer American Merchant, a new freight vessel on her maiden voyage from New York to London. The American steamer was badly damaged and was towed into the Tilbury dock. There were no casualties aboard her.

Harry Sinclair Cited to Grand Jury for Contempt

Washington.—By a vote of 72 to 1 the senate approved the recommendation of the oil committee, and certified Harry F. Sinclair to the United States district attorney for action by the grand jury for contempt. The action grew out of Mr. Sinclair's flat refusal to testify, after he had been duly summoned to appear before the oil committee for questioning in connection with the Teapot Dome scandal.

Life! Life! Life!

By REV. C. H. BENSON
Director Religious Education Course,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—I am come that they might have life.—John 10:10.

What does the risen Christ mean to men? To some Easter means little beyond the present day. They may not object to seeing others enter into this joyous occasion, but as for themselves, it is of such little importance that they seldom give it any lasting thought or concern.

There are others who find much more in the historical Christ than in the risen Savior. In their zeal to present something visible, tangible and audible, they rob Christianity of its intrinsic value by making Christ a moral teacher rather than a risen Savior.

Both classes have missed the real significance of Christ's earthly mission. They have forgotten that the end of all tangible things is death, and no man has ever lived who has been able to say, "I shall not die." Men may want this thing today and that thing tomorrow, but the one thing that they will want above anything else when they come to die will be life, and this is the great message of Easter. Christ is the author and finisher of our life, and life should be the central theme and thought of Christianity, for "if in this world only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable."

Life is Natural.—Today we are celebrating the resurrection of the flowers and the foliage from the frozen regions of death. In the autumn months, when we laid them away in their grand and gorgeous garments, it was in full hope of a resurrection. May not man who withers as the grass, also rise with it? If the grass bursts forth from its frozen tomb, if the butterfly bursts from its chrysalis, if the birds return with the summer sun—then man must rise again from the sleep of death.

Life is Reasonable.—All philosophers have acknowledged the existence of the soul as one of the first and most inextinguishable principles of human science. Must man, the monarch of all things, perish, while the things remain? Must the creator fall and the creation live? Must we conclude that the pebble at our feet, which is ages old, is of more value than we are? No! We must live on while roses blossom among the grasses of our tomb. Reason not only makes life possible, but death well-nigh impossible.

Life is Desirable.—When the steamer Atlantic foundered off the coast of Newfoundland gold, silver and bank stocks were strewn upon the deck as worthless. "Life! Life! Life!" was the cry that went up from 650 terrified beings as they were carried down to a watery grave. Life is desirable, but not with most men until the time comes to part with it. Men want to live, but they do not want to prepare to live until they come to die.

Life is Valuable.—No man knew how valuable life was until Christ came. He did not lay any emphasis upon the betterment of man's present condition in the brief period of his sojourn in this world. He came that men might have life. When He said, "What shall a man profit if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" he mightily magnified life and relegated the world and the things of the world to relative insignificance. We must estimate life by the price that was paid for it. "Ye are not redeemed with corruptible things such as silver and gold, but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a Lamb without blemish and without spot." O, for that immortal life that lies within the bosom of every man, the richest blood was shed. Come to Calvary and see God's only beloved Son outstretched upon the accursed tree for your soul's salvation, and you will know the inestimable value of your life.

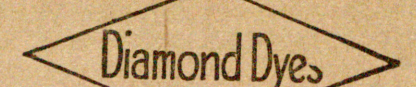

Life is Procurable.—Once more is proclaimed the Easter message, "I am come that ye may have life." Christ may never come as near to you again. But sickness will come. Sorrow will come. Death will come. Judgment will come. Eternity will come. Postpone this all-important matter of your eternal existence and you are neglecting the last lifeboat that shall put out from the wreck where the old hulk goes down. Let Christ come into your heart today. Let Him take possession of your life and then "when Christ our life shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory."

The School of Life

But the most important thing, which needs not only be said, but also to be understood, is that life itself is the great school. Facts are teachers. Experiences are lessons. Friends are guides. Work is a master. Love is an interpreter. Teaching itself is a method of learning. Joy carries a divining-rod and discovers mountains. Sorrow is an astronomer and shows us the stars. What I have lived I really know, and what I really know I partly own; and so, begin with what I know and what I own, I move through my curriculum, elective and required, gaining nothing but what I learn, at once instructed and examined by every duty and every pleasure.—Henry Van Dyke.

Health and good looks —the reward of internal cleanliness

HEALTH and good looks go hand in hand. If you do not keep clean internally, your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks, and insomnia—each of which saps your health and vitality. Soon much more serious conditions follow.

In constipation, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness including the gravest diseases of life.

Laxatives
Aggravate Constipation
Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Experience as Nurse Causes Mrs. Fleming to Endorse Tanlac

Practical Nurse for 16 Years Tells of Recovery Thanks to Tanlac—Recommends It to Patients.

"I would never have believed any medicine on earth could help me like Tanlac did," is the precise statement of Mrs. Celia Fleming, 1915 Addison St., Berkeley, Calif., a practical nurse of sixteen years' experience.

"In 1904 a serious operation weakened my system so I never saw a real well day until I took Tanlac three years ago. I never seemed to be hungry, my stomach was so disordered I could scarcely retain a thing I ate, and I lost weight till I was almost a shadow. I was very anemic, and shattered nerves and sleepless nights contributed even more to my already miserable state.

"Tanlac built up my appetite and digestion wonderfully, and every single ailment went away. Then, with returning strength came a 32-pound increase in weight, and from that day three years ago my health has been splendid. I recommend Tanlac to many of my patients, for it is indeed a remarkable medicine."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitutes.

George had taken his country cousin Jim to look over the airdrome. When he had seen all there was to see, George said to his companion:

"Now we'll go for a joy ride in one of these new-fangled things," replied Jim.

"I may be old-fashioned, but I don't care very much for going on a trip in one of these new-fangled things," replied Jim.

"Oh, don't be a fool!" laughed the other. "Why, you may live to see airplanes running like omnibus services!"

"Yes, I may, if I keep out of them," was the cautious reply.

EDWIN F. DEICKE WILL BE WINNER FOR CONGRESS Not a Lawyer but a Successful Business Man and Farmer —Sure to Win Race

On Tuesday, April 8th, the voters of the Eleventh Congressional District, comprising McHenry, Kane, Will and Du Page County, will decide whether they want a political lawyer or a successful business man and farmer to represent them in Congress.

Nearly all connected with the Tea Pot Dome oil scandal are political lawyers. These political lawyers who are accused of stealing, bribery and conspiracy to defraud the government today are being defended by political lawyers.

Every one of Edwin F. Deicke's opponents for congress are lawyers. When they announced their candidacy for congress they attempted to make it very impressive that they were good lawyers, where they studied a law and where they practiced law and the longer the law practice the greater the efficiency as a congressman they asserted. Undoubtedly many of the political lawyers accused in the Tea Pot Dome oil scandal are very great and efficient lawyers, sufficiently efficient to swindle and defraud the government out of millions of dollars to the cost of the tax payers, ex-service men and their dependents.

Edwin F. Deicke has made it very plain to all the voters of the district that he IS NOT A LAWYER, but a successful business man and farmer. Neither is he a silver-tongued orator but a man who can be thoroughly understood in plain English that he is strongly opposed to graft, bribery and dishonesty in the United States government and will expose and eradicate these evils at every opportunity; he is a fighter and will be heard from when in congress in no unmistakable terms, denouncing these existing evils which are destroying the great fundamental principles of our government, giving all that is in him for the enforcement of the constitution and every national law.

In no way does Mr. Deicke wish to discredit law, lawyers or the legal profession. The law of the land and of our country must be enforced, law and order must be maintained, and lawyers have a sacred duty to perform, that is to sustain and enforce law.

Approximately eighty per cent of the men in Congress today are political lawyers and that is sufficient. What is more vitally needed in congress today are successful and practical business men, with out legal mind, but with good common sense and good business judgment.

Year after year, for years and years, DuPage County has been voting for Will and Kane County candidates. Now DuPage County has a candidate and the favor can be returned by supporting their candidate, Edwin F. Deicke, who is well qualified to represent all the people of this district.

Vote for Edwin F. Deicke, business man and farmer, endorsed by news papers, business men, women labor, ex-service men and farmers. Adv.

The Rummy Card Club have decided not to play during Lent. They will resume the gathering again in Fall.

Mrs. Keleher visited in Chicago Saturday.

The M. E. Ladies Aid Society had their monthly meeting with Mrs. Reiber on Wednesday and were well satisfied with the attendance.

The Tinley Park Bunco Club met at the home of Mrs. A. Clemens. It was also the occasion of a shower. Will let you in on the secret later.

The infant son born to Mr. and Mrs. Derr on St. Valentine's Day, has been summoned to join the angels. The bereaved parents have the heart felt sympathy of their many friends. Mrs. Derr is a daughter of Mrs. Henry Hick.

Mrs. E. Boldt and son went on a shopping expedition to Chicago last week. Mrs. Boldt says it is no fun—too much hustle and bustle.

Mrs. Henry Hick and Mrs. Aug. Mesenbrink attended the funeral of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Derr held in Chicago on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kalowin and Mr. and Mrs. Combs have moved to Tinley Park. Welcome to our midst.

A free medicine show is on at the Saenger hall. Everyone welcome and you can get a remedy for almost every ill even down to corns.

Mrs. Wm. Scheer attended the coffee and meeting of the Evangelical Ladies Aid at Mokena last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clemens attended the show at the Roosevelt, last Wednesday evening.

Mr. George Lorenz, has had the decorators at work at his place the last week. He has had the upstairs all fixed up and will move higher up by April 1st. George believes in getting high up in this world.

Mrs. Ahrens has been very sick the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Feddeler and son Harold of Chicago were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clemens Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Brennan and family of Chicago were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Mesenbrink, Sunday.

Mr. Harry Brighton of Chicago celebrated his birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clemens on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lippincott moved into their new bungalow last Thursday.

The Tinley Park Bunco Club met at the home of Mrs. Clemens last Thursday. The first prize was taken by Mrs. Wilke, the second by Mrs. J. Andres and the bobby by Mrs. August Mesenbrink.

Mr. James Keleher was home to spend the week end with his family

The Royal Neighbors met Tuesday evening which is now their new meeting night, instead of Wednesday as formerly. Bunco was played after the meeting.

Mrs. Schmediknecht went to Chicago Thursday to attend a re-union of friends made while on board ship to Germany last summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Manzke will soon be with the tax payers of Tinley Park. They have bought a lot and will start building a new home soon as the weather permits. The more the merrier.

Miss Irma Hick had a birthday party last Friday and her aunt, Mrs. Martin Hick of Blue Island, came out to help her celebrate.

Mr. and Mrs. Gotham and family motored to Crown Point, Ind., last Thursday evening and returned on Sunday. Mrs. Gotham came back with bobbed hair.

Mrs. Thies from Flossmoor came to visit her sister, Mrs. Hartman, the occasion being her birthday last Friday.

Last Friday, Mrs. Bettenhausen invited a number of her friends to surprise Mrs. Wallin, and whisper it, it was a stork shower.

Mrs. James Keleher visited in Chicago Monday.

The loud report heard last Friday was not a cannon going off, but a big tree sawed off by August Sippel in front of Wm. Scheer's place. Some more wood (no snoring) to be saved.

The Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church meet at the home of Mrs. Stockman on Wednesday, the second of April. All are welcome.

A week ago last Sunday Carl Rose was arrested by officer Walter Jergenson on a disorderly charge. Rose resisted the officer so when his case came up last Monday before Clyde Rice, local police magistrate, he was fined $30 and costs. He paid this and then was re-arrested on another charge and taken to Chicago.

Recently a couple of newly weds from Tinley Park had an exciting time. They had gone to Blue Island and missing the mid-night train and not wishing to stay over night in that city they started walking on the Rock Island tracks to Tinley Park. They found the way a long hard one, arriving home the next morning at 4 o'clock. They were nearly frozen. This story might have never come to light but for the local mail-messenger who observed the couple come walking home in the wee sma' hours of the morning. No doubt this trip will not be classed as a honeymoon trip.

Postmaster C. Andres has posted a notice in the local post office lobby from the postal department saying that the postmasters and carriers thruout the country are not permitted to take any active part in politics under penalty.

Lorenz & Holstein held a big grand opening at the Saenger hall on Wednesday night. A big free feed was served. A very large crowd was present.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON VI

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,
Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

We hear of bank capital, surplus and stockholders. What economic services do they render the community?

BANK CAPITAL—The money necessary to engage in the business of rendering banking services to the community.

SURPLUS—A part of a bank's earnings not paid out as dividends to stockholders but reserved for possible losses or to expand activities as needed by growing business.

CAPITAL AND SURPLUS—Protection to depositors, because if trouble arises, depositors must be paid in full out of these funds if necessary before stockholders are paid anything.

BANK STOCKHOLDER—Anyone able and willing to buy stock in a bank and to assume the risk of the business. A share of stock represents a fraction of ownership in the whole, and with ownership go responsibilities and liabilities. In smaller communities those who usually organize banks interest successful farmers, successful merchants and successful manufacturers because of the influence they bring.

DOUBLE LIABILITY—The obligation under the law that rests on a bank stockholder, in case his bank fails and the assets are not enough to pay depositors, to pay an amount equal to his bank stock, in addition to losing his original investment. This is not the case in corporations other than banks. Example: If a man owned $1,000 in bank stock and the bank failed, and after the assets had been used, the bank still owed money to depositors, the stockholder would be required to pay up to another $1,000 if necessary to meet the obligations to depositors.

Thus it is seen that bank capital and bank stockholders perform real economic services.

An Important Problem Is the Election of a Congressman

Election of a Congressman this year is one of the most important problems before the voters of the district.

A man is needed who can and will represent this district for the best interests of the people of the district. He must have had business experience. He must know and understand the needs and demands of labor. He must know and understand the needs and problems of the farmer. He must have a grasp of political and economic problems on a broad scale. He must be a man of mature years and judgment.

He must be a thinker and capable of expressing his thoughts in such manner as to make them acceptable to his colleagues.

He must be able to mingle with all classes of people—and above all, must possess that magnetic personality of the true leader that inspires others to follow him.

Of the five candidates for the nomination for Congressman in this district this year, D. R. Anderson, of Joliet, is the most eminently qualified for the place. We make no claim that he is a Moses who will lead his people out of bondage immediately upon his election, or that he will cure all our economic and political ills. Neither does Mr. Anderson advance such a claim, as so many office seekers do.

That is one thing that impresses us so with Mr. Anderson—he is not filling the district with empty, meaningless promises. He is a doer, not a promiser. He has said that if elected he will fulfill the obligations of the office to the best of his ability.

Mr. Anderson has worked in the mines, taught school, is a farm owner, has made a success of his chosen profession—the law, and has had a world of business experience. In everything that he has attempted success has crowned his efforts, and there is no reason why he should not make a successful Congressman if he wins the nomination.

D. R. Anderson is, and always has been, a staunch Republican. He is a man of mature thought and given to careful judgment.

Mr. Anderson lost his only son in the World War, and there is no doubt as to where his heart is in the bonus and other questions of interest to the service man.

If the voters of this district nominate and elect Mr. Anderson to Congress, they will never regret it. He is a man to be trusted. He is safe.

First Steam Transatlantic Trip.
The American vessel Savannah crossed the Atlantic from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool in 1819 in 29 days 11 hours. The trip was made partly under steam but mainly by sail. In 1833 the Royal William, of 830 tons, built in Canada, made the first transatlantic voyage entirely under steam.

ORLAND

(Too late for last week)

Master Marvin Schmaedke who had a slight attack of pneumonia, is now well enough to be out again.

Mr. Charles Hahnelein who has been spending part of the winter in California, has returned home.

Mrs. John Gee of Englewood spent a few days last week with her daughters, Mrs. R. M. Cooper and Mrs. J. Klein.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Zerbs report the arrival of a seven pound baby girl born Monday. Mrs. Zerbs will be remembered as Miss Elsie Vogt before her marriage.

Mrs. Anna Cannon is spending a few weeks at the George Vogt home.

The medicine show which has been in town for the past two weeks closed last Saturday night. Miss Mable Rust was voted the most popular young lady of Orland and was presented with a handsome beaded bag. Mrs. Louis Raschke, was the winner of the bean contest and was awarded with a silver bread tray. A good crowd attended every evening.

Last Wednesday Lester Sayers and Miss Helen Butcher motored to the Rev. Charles Ruhlén home and were quietly united in marriage by the pastor. In spite of the well kept secret the news leaked out and a crowd of ladies were at the door with plenty of rice. The young couple are well known in the M. E. church community and will make their future home on the Steven Sayers farm.

Last Wednesday evening Jefferson Ludwig returned home about ten o'clock and upon opening the door of his father's new house he smelled the fumes of smoke. He investigated and found that the fire was in the hallway to the basement. The Volunteer Fire Department was called out but the fire was extinguished before the hose was attached. Not much damage was done.

In last week's Bulletin it was stated that Christ Steinhagen and Fred Arnold were candidates for assessor. This was an error as the present assessor Mr. Martin Smith Sr., is seeking re-election and Fred Arnold is his opponent. Mr. Smith holds a very good record and is well known to all the people of the village and vicinity and needs no further introduction.

The Young Ladies Club gave a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. John Klein who was formerly Esther Gee at the Charles Hahnelein home last Thursday evening. Many beautiful presents were showered upon the bride. The club members gave a linen table cloth and napkins. The evening was passed playing buncos. After the games and opening of the presents, a delightful luncheon was served by Mrs. Hahnelein assisted by friends. There were twenty-eight present.

The Royal Neighbors of Laurel Camp were entertained by Mrs. Martin Smith, Sr., Thursday at noon. The ladies were treated to a fine chicken dinner which was no doubt enjoyed by all.

All the Irishmen in Orland were at Rane's St. Patrick's dance on Monday night, March 17, wearing the green and swinging the bonnie lassies to the tune of merry waltzes.

A week ago last Sunday Rev. Chas. Bower of Garret Biblical Institute gave two fine illustrated sermons at the Orland M. E. church. One of the outstanding features was his presentation of Edwih Mark ham's famous poem "How the Great Guest Came" and he illustrated it with five very fine drawings.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell returned home last week after spending several months in Florida. Mr. Mitchell will soon resume his position as conductor on the Wabash dummy.

The SANDMAN STORY

MR. CAT AND MR. FOX

ONCE there lived near a wood a big cat who was not afraid of dogs. All the cats were afraid of him. He grew so bold that he thought he was braver than any animal around.

One day he decided to live in the woods and live with the wood folks, and he had not gone very far when he met a fox. "Good-morning, friend," said the fox, "are you looking for a home?"

"Yes," replied the cat. "I am far too brave to live around with those cats and dogs outside the woods. I can scare any of them, so I have decided to become wild and live in the woods."

"Um," said the fox, all the time thinking how he could use this silly cat to help him in some way. "Well, come to my den. It is large enough for us both until you grow big and get a tail like mine, and by that time you will find a home of your own."

"I should like a tail like yours very much," replied the cat, who had not taken his eyes off of the bushy tail of the fox.

Mr. Cat Was Caught in the Trap.

the fox, "but how can I ever hope to have such a handsome one as you have?"

"Easiest thing in the world to get if you are willing to follow my instructions," said the sly fox.

By the time they reached the den Mr. Cat was willing to do anything to grow and have a tail like the fox. "We had better not lose time," said Mr. Fox. "The sooner we begin the treatment the quicker you will grow wild and get your bushy tail. The first thing to be done is for you to do all the work, I mean exercise—you must get plenty of exercise, build the fire and cook the supper!"

Mr. Cat was willing and he was pretty hungry, so when the chicken was done he hurriedly drew up his chair beside Mr. Fox and passed his plate.

"Oh, I forgot to mention that another thing to be strictly followed is a vegetable diet," said the fox. "Nothing but green stuff must you eat if you expect to get a tail like mine. You had better run out and eat your fill of grass and then run down the path to the river and drink all the water you can hold."

Though he did not care for this part of the plan, Mr. Cat cast one longing glance at the bushy tail he so coveted and out he ran.

When he returned Mr. Fox sat with his feet on the stove, tipped back in his chair, smoking. "Now wash the dishes and tidy up the place and then we will go to bed."

Mr. Cat was so hungry that he slyly licked the bones Mr. Fox had left and he was glad to go to sleep and forget he was hungry.

The next morning bright and early Mr. Fox had him out of bed to cook his breakfast—two plump chickens he had brought home very early.

"Exercise, my friend," he said, "plenty of it, or you will never grow a bushy tail. Perhaps you do not get enough exercise. Suppose you come with me tonight and help me get a chicken. That will give you a little more exercise than you get here."

Mr. Cat did not think it was lack of exercise that kept him from growing the bushy tail; but he trotted along with Mr. Fox that night up to the farm.

When they reached the poultry house Mr. Fox said: "Now you run in and drive them out and I will catch them. I am quicker than you at catching chickens."

While inside, Mr. Cat stepped on a trap, which held his foot fast.

"Ha! ha!" laughed Mr. Fox. "I thought as much," he said, jumping back to a safe distance.

"Come here and help me out of this thing!" cried Mr. Cat, beginning to understand that Mr. Fox was friendly only to himself.

"I guess not, my friend," replied Mr. Fox. "I hope your tail grows big and bushy and you won't have to wait long to grow wild. You will be wild enough in a few minutes with the trap fastened to your paw." And off he ran, leaving poor Mr. Cat very unhappy.

"So you are the one that has been catching my chickens," said the farmer, when he released Mr. Cat the next morning. And if the tracks of Mr. Fox had not been found it would have gone hard with Mr. Cat.

But Mr. Cat had no wish to run away. He stayed right there at the farm and in time he caught all the mice and rats that bothered the farmer and his wife and always he was on the lookout for Mr. Fox. For all foxes looked alike to Mr. Cat and he intended to scratch out the eyes of any fox that he saw, hoping it would be the one that had tricked him.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

CARRIE

CARRIE may almost be regarded as a purely American name, though her origin is discovered in the Karling herons of the Teutons. Curiously, the meaning of the name is translated as "man," and Carrie's etymological predecessors were almost universally masculine names. The various Charles' and Carls who figured in English and Teutonic history are close relatives of Carrie.

Carrie evolved in England after Charlet had been brought there by the brave Lady Derby from the house of La Tremouille, into which the daughter of the unfortunate Charlotte d'Albret had carried it. The Anglicized version, Carolina, became the most popular of the two names, since it was borne by the queen of King George II, who brought it through Germany from an Italian source.

Carrie, an English diminutive brought to this country by the christening of the Carolinas among the Thirteen Colonies, caught the fancy of Southern residents to such an extent that it is now given in baptism as a totally independent and etymologically intact name.

The beryl is the talismanic stone belonging to Carrie. It is said to make her amiable and inconquerable, and to give her the power to hold the love of her husband. Tuesday is her lucky day and 2 her lucky number.

The Romance of Words

"CRAVAT"

WHILE the English or Anglo-Saxon "necktie" is far more generally used in this country than the French "cravat," the latter has a history more striking than could be attributed to the combination of the two mono-syllabic words "neck" and "tie."

The cravat is so-called from a famous French regiment of light horse, named "The Royal Cravates," because they were attired in the fashion of an Austrian province who made up a large portion of the Austrian army. In 1636, the French regiment bearing this name was in uniform in imitation of the Croatian troops, precisely as the Zouaves of a later day took their name and their uniform from a savage tribe in South Africa—and when the neckties worn by these troops became fashionable in civil as well as in military life, the name of the regiment was given to the tie. The regiment has long since disappeared from the roster of the French army, but the name persists, even in English, as a reminder of the Austrian troops who first wore this style of neck adornment.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

PUTTING BABY ON THE BED

IT IS commonly believed, in New England, at least, and probably in many other sections of the country, that if the first time a baby is taken visiting it is placed on a married couple's bed there will be a child born to that couple.

This is a phase of a world-wide superstition which has not only been handed down to the civilization of today from our primitive forbears, but exists in an almost identical form among nearly all civilized races. It is an excellent example of how the primitive mind, working in unrelated peoples, ignorant of each other's existence and far asunder in point of location, arrives at a common conclusion.

"MY BELOVED HERO"

SYNOPSIS.—Solomon Binkus, veteran scout and interpreter, and his young companion, Jack Irons, passing through Horse Valley, New York, in September, 1768, to warn settlers of an Indian uprising, rescue from a band of redskins the wife and daughter of Colonel Hare of England. Jack distinguishes himself in the fight and later rescues Margaret Hare from the river. Jack and Margaret fall in love. On reaching Fort Stanwix, Colonel Hare says both are too young to marry. The Hare family sail for England, and the Irons family move to Albany. Unrest grows in the colonies because of the oppressive measures of the English government. Solomon and Jack visit Boston.

Jack and Solomon attended the town meeting that day in the Old South meeting-house. It was a quiet and orderly crowd that listened to the speeches of Josiah Quincy, John Hancock and Samuel Adams, demanding calmly but firmly that the soldiers be forthwith removed from the city. The famous John Hancock cut a great figure in Boston in those days. It is not surprising that Jack was impressed by his grandeur, for he had entered the meeting-house in a scarlet velvet cap and a blue damask gown lined with velvet and strode to the platform with a dignity even above his garments. As he faced about the boy did not fail to notice and admire the white satin waistcoat and white silk stockings and red morocco slippers. Mr. Quincy made a statement which stuck like a burr in Jack Irons' memory of that day, and perhaps all the faster because he did not quite understand it. The speaker said: "The dragon's teeth have been sown."

The chairman asked if there was any citizen present who had been on the scene at or about the time of the shooting. Solomon Binkus arose and held up his hand and was asked to go to the minister's room and confer with the committee.

Mr. John Adams called at the inn that evening and announced that he was to defend Captain Preston and would require the help of Jack and Solomon as witnesses. For that reason they were detained some days in Boston and released finally on the promise to return when their services were required.

They had a hearty welcome at the little house near the King's Arms, where they sat until midnight telling of their adventures. In the midst of it Jack said to his father:

"I heard a speaker say in Boston that the dragon's teeth had been sown. What does that mean?"

"It means that war is coming," said John Irons. "We might as well get ready for it."

These words, coming from his father, gave him a shock of surprise. He began to think of the effect of war on his own fortunes.

Solomon sent his furs to market and went to work on the farm of John Irons and lived with the family. The boy returned to school. After the hay had been cut and stacked in midsummer, they were summoned to Boston to testify in the trial of Preston. They left in September, taking with them a drove of horses.

"It will be good for Jack," John Irons had said to his wife. "He'll be the better prepared for his work in Philadelphia next fall."

Two important letters had arrived that summer. One from Benjamin Franklin to John Irons, offering Jack a chance to learn the printer's trade in his Philadelphia shop and board and lodging in his home.

The other letter was from Margaret Hare to the boy, in which she had said that they were glad to learn that he and Mr. Binkus were friends of Captain Preston and inclined to help him in his trouble. "Since I read your letter I am more in love with you than ever," she had written. "My father was pleased with it. He thinks that all cause of complaint will be removed. Until it is, I do not ask you to be a Tory, but only to be patient."

Jack and Solomon were the whole day getting their horses across Van Deusen's ferry and headed eastward in the rough road. Mr. Binkus wore his hanger—an old Damascus blade inherited from his father—and carried his long musket and an abundant store of ammunition; Jack wore his two pistols, in the use of which he had become most expert.

They came to wagon roads improving as they approached towns and villages, in the first of which they began selling the drove. When they reached Boston, nearly a week later, they had only the two horses which they rode.

The trial had just begun. Being ardent Whigs, their testimony made an impression. Jack's letter to his father

Her daughter, Mrs. Bache, and the latter's children were there. Suddenly confronted by the problem of a strange lad coming into the house to live with them, they were a bit dismayed. But presently their motherly hearts were touched by the look of the big, gentle-faced, homesick boy. They made a room ready for him on the top floor and showed him the wonders of the big house—the library, the electrical apparatus, the rocking chair with its fan swayed by the movement of the chair, the new stove and grate which the doctor had invented. That evening, after an excellent supper, Jack suggested that he would like to have a part of the work to do.

"I can sweep and clean as well as anyone," he said. "My mother taught me how to do that. You must call on me for any help you need."

"Now I wouldn't wonder but what we'll get erlong real happy," said Mrs. Franklin. "If you'll get up 'arley an' dust the main floor an' do the broom work an' fill the wood boxes an' fetch water, I'll see ye don't go hungry."

Jack went to the shop and was put to work next morning. He had to carry beer and suffer a lot of humiliating imposition from older boys in the big shop, but he bore it patiently and made friends and good progress. That winter he took dancing lessons from the famous John Trotter of New York and practiced fencing with the well-known Master Brissac. He also took a course in geometry and trigonometry at the academy and wrote an article describing his trip to Boston for the Gazette. The latter was warmly praised by the editor and reprinted in New York and Boston journals. He joined the company for home defense and excelled in the games, on training day, especially at the running, wrestling, boxing and target shooting. There were many shooting galleries in Philadelphia wherein Jack had shown a knack of shooting with the rifle and pistol, which had won for him the Franklin medal for marksmanship. In the back country, the favorite amusement of himself and father had been shooting at a mark.

Jack forged ahead, not only in the printer's art, but on toward the fullness of his strength. Under the stimulation of city life and continuous study, his talents grew like wheat in black soil. In the summer of seventy-three he began to contribute to the columns of the Gazette. Certain of his articles brought him compliments from the best people for their wit, penetration and good humor. He had entered upon a career of great promise when the current of his life quickened like that of a river come to a steeper grade. It began with a letter from Margaret Hare, dated July 14, 1773. In it she writes:

"When you get this please sit down and count up the years that have passed since we parted. Then think how our plans have gone awry. You must also think of me waiting here for you in the midst of a marrying world. All my friends have taken their mates and passed on. I went to Doctor Franklin today and told him that I was an old lady well past nineteen and accused him of having a heart of stone. He said that he had not sent for you because you were making such handsome progress in your work. I said: 'You do not think of the rapid progress I am making toward old age. You forget, too, that I need a husband as badly as the Gazette needs a philosopher. I rebel. You have made me an American—you and Jack. I will not longer consent to taxation without representation. Year by year I am giving up some of my youth and I am not being consulted about it.'"

"Said he: 'I would demand justice of the king. I suppose he' thinks that his country cannot yet afford a queen. I shall tell him that he is imitating George the Third and that he had better listen to the voice of the people.'"

"Now, my beloved hero, the English girl who is not married at nineteen is thought to be hopeless. There are fine lads who have asked my father for the right to court me and still I am waiting for my brave deliverer and he comes not. I cannot forget the thrush's song and the enchanted woods. They hold me. If they have not held you—if for any reason your heart has changed—you will not fall to tell me, will you? Is it necessary that you should be great and wise and rich and learned before you come to me? Little by little, after many talks with the venerable Franklin, I have got the American notion that I would like to go away with you and help you to accomplish these things and enjoy the happiness which was ours, for a little time, and of which you speak in your letters. Surely there was something very great in those moments. It does not fade and has it not kept us true to our promise? But, Jack, how long am I to wait? You must tell me."

"The letter to Dr. Franklin was in his pocket."

Comforts of Science

"I hear you have taken up psycho-analysis."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "It is so soothing to be able to say you have a complex instead of a dreadful disposition."

For His Own Use

Mrs. Chatterton—I said something that offended your wife, so she didn't speak to me for a week.

Mr. Longsuffer—Would you mind telling me what it was you said?

Lesson for March 30

REVIEW—ABRAHAM TO SOLOMON

GOLDEN TEXT.—The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy.—Ps. 103:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC.—Selected Stories of the Quarter.

JUNIOR TOPIC.—Great Events of the Quarter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC.—Chief Persons of the Quarter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.—From Abraham to Solomon.

Since the needs and capacities of the various classes differ so widely, no set method or form of review is possible. For adult classes two methods are suggested.

I. Central Scenes of the Lessons.

Have the pupils prepare brief essays or speeches of two or three minutes on the outstanding historical scenes of each lesson. The following subjects are taken from Peloubet's Notes:

1. Abraham Sets Out for Haran.
2. Jacob Starts for Egypt.
3. Moses at the Burning Bush.
4. Moses Bids the Israelites Cross the Red Sea.
5. Moses Receives the Law on Sinai.
6. The Debate at Kadesh-barnea.
7. The Last March Around Jericho.
8. Gideon Cuts Down His Army.
9. Samuel's Victory at Mizpeh.
10. Saul's Return From the Campaign Against the Amalekites.
11. David Writing the Twenty-third Psalm.
12. Solomon Dedication of the Temple.

II. Summary of the Teaching of Each Lesson.

Lesson I. Abraham was called of the Lord to be the head of the nation through whom the Redeemer was to come, and Palestine was the chosen land. Israel, God's chosen and most favored nation, the nation to whom He came nearest and gave most, in order that it might pass on its goodness to the other nations, was given the most strategic position in the earth. Palestine is practically the center of the earth. It is to be the capital of the world when Jesus shall reign.

Lesson II. Israel's sojourn in Egypt welded them into a nation and taught them a new way to trust God. Through God's providence Joseph was sent to Egypt to preserve Israel until they were ready to enter Canaan.

Lesson III. When the purpose of the sojourn in Egypt was about to be accomplished God prepared a man, Moses by name, to deliver them from bondage and lead them to the Promised Land. God always has his servants in training, so that when the exigency arrives the fit man is ready to execute His will.

Lesson IV. Pharaoh saw the Israelites in a straitened position, and therefore madly pursued them. Having seen the Israelites go through the Red sea dry shod, the Egyptians insanely thought they could follow in their wake. Ruin shall surely follow those who in unbelief attempt to follow in the path of those who walk by faith.

Lesson V. Because of God's unparalleled goodness to Israel, they were under solemn obligation to render obedience to His commandments.

Lesson VI. Through unbelief a tour of investigation was made before entering Canaan. Against the earnest protest of Caleb and Joshua the people refused to enter the land. Because of this God sent them to wander in the wilderness for forty years.

Lesson VII. Upon the death of Moses Joshua was called to lead the people into the land. Though God's servants die His work goes on.

Lesson VIII. While Joshua and the elders of his generation lived, the people remained faithful to God. When they sinned God sent them chastisement by permitting the surrounding nations to oppress them. When they repented and cried to God deliverers in the form of judges were given.

Lesson IX. Under the judges the nation degenerated into a condition of anarchy. Through the ministry of Samuel, the last of the judges, the nation was brought back to God.

Lesson X. Because of their desire to be like other people Israel demanded a king. Saul was given in response to this request. Though blessed with a great opportunity he forfeited God's favor. God removed him from being king and his career ended in disgrace.

Lesson XI. David, a shepherd lad, so prepared himself while looking after his father's sheep, that at the critical moment he slew the Philistine giant. God elevated him to be king, and through his leadership the kingdom was thoroughly organized and all his enemies subdued.

Lesson XII. Because Solomon sought wisdom instead of riches God greatly honored and blessed him.

Laws.

Laws are not invented; they grow out of circumstances.—Azarias.

Extreme Rigor.

An extreme rigor is sure to arm everything against it.—Burke.

Prefer to Be Happy.

Too many wish to be happy before becoming wise.—Mad Necker.

Gone and Past Help.

What's gone and past help should be past grief.—Shakespeare.

WORTH

WORTH METHODIST CHURCH

The pastor's subject next Sunday morning, March 31, will be "Christianity's Task in the Modern World". This sermon will conclude the series on "Christian Fundamentals".

"Mr. Bob," a comedy in two acts will be presented by members of the Segoea Class on Friday evening April 4, at 7:30 at the church. Tickets are now on sale, and a large audience is expected to be present. Music and other special features are in addition to the play.

On Sunday evening, April 6, a team of four young men from Northwestern University will be with us and will have charge of the evening service. This is expected to be one of the best services of the entire year.

WORTH SUNDAY SCHOOL
The Sunday school of Worth is making great progress according to our motto which is "Every boy and girl of Worth in Sunday school".

We have been keeping up a record of over 50 children a Sunday with Mr. Benedict's class who are having a contest.

Saturday, March 15 the Sunday school had a party and 32 guests were present. Class No. 3 served the refreshments. Games were then played and all had a lovely time.

We are planning to get a case of eggs to send to the W. M. hospital as our Easter offering. We are also doing Missionary work.

Next Sunday as review Sunday each class will have a review of their lessons by telling their lesson stories and reciting their memory texts. We are looking forward to more classes. We cordially invite anyone who wishes to come to our church.

Wm. Palmer has gone to Wisconsin and expects to be gone for a few months.

The Good Roads Gov. Merits Your Live Support

It is aparent to the man who reads as he runs that Gov. Len Small is practically sure of re-nomination and re-election. The consensus of opinion being that he is daily more beloved by the people at large for the enemies he has made among the proponents of special interests.

The campaign slurs and slings that have been made with regard to his service during his activities in public office are to say the least ridiculous and in some instances the attacks are of such a scurulous character, that the political anamus, spleen and prejudice are so evident, that the sentiment of "fair play" is aroused in the hearts of the prospective voters, and as a result, the friends of the Governor are now more active in his behalf than they would ordinarily have been and many who might possibly have favored another candidate by default, are becoming interested and as their interest continues, they are day by day more thoroughly impressed, not only with the worthiness of Len Small, who has been indeed the "Good Roads Governor" of the state, but for the intrinsic value of his official acts as a real servant of the people of the commonwealth, performed without fear or favor or discrimination.

The Humanitarian features of his administration are of the most commendable nature and have helped to place our state in a very favorable light among the list of states whose chief executives, "have had a heart" for those they served.

Probably the great outstanding feature of his interest and determined effort is the program of good roads and the progress made in the extending of such road improvement. Not only have these roads been driven to completion, but under trying circumstances, and under adverse conditions and at times in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles the state's fund for road building have been conserved and a dollar for dollar returned to the people.

The concentration of individual and collective interests, the benefits that accrue to those who travel by whatever form of conveyance either for pleasure or for profit, and for the transportation of the products of the farm to the markets, made possible by the improved roads has been of inestimable value to the citizens of the state and we believe we should continue him in office. He has demonstrated his ability to deliver the goods.

Let us help to pull Illinois entirely out of the mud by voting for the return of Gov. Small. Good roads mean a great deal to the farmers of this state and they ought to give Gov. Small their united support at the primaries on April 8.

FRANKFORT

The Frankfort Vol. Fire Dept., treasury has been enriched by $20 from the Green Garden Fire Insurance Company as compensation for the excellent services rendered at the time of the W. C. Owen fire by the efficient use of the new chemical truck. The Fire Department is thankful for the gift and deeply appreciates the fact that its services were so well appreciated.

Chas. Bobzin has purchased a new truck from Art Bauch and is going to sell gasoline for Henry Elsner.

Mrs. Henry Breidert who recently underwent an operation at Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, is doing very nicely. It is probable that she will return to her home by Sunday.

The funeral of Robert Bettenhausen of Green Garden who died last Thursday was held Sunay from the German M. E. church, Rev. Otto Frey officiating.

Mr. Bettenhausen has been afflicted with heart trouble for the past year. He attained the age of 36 years. He is survived by his wife, 3 children and his father Christ Bettenhausen.

Bernard Zechlin who has been ill is able to be out again.

The ladies of the St. Peter Evan. church held their monthly coffee on Thursday.

Rev. G. Lambrecht is conducting Lenten services every Thursday eve. These services are in German. He will conduct an English service on Sunday morning and the male quartet will offer special music.

Eugene Walsh and Herbert Kohlhagen have been serving on jury duty the past two weeks.

Mrs. Fred Warning will entertain the Royal Neighbors in her home on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Gertrude Eichmeier spent Sunday and Monday in Chicago, visiting with relatives.

Sheldon Whitcomb has been ill at his home the past week. His brother Leo has also been ill, but has returned to school.

George Elsner who recently underwent an operation at the Silver Cross hospital has returned to his home and is doing nicely.

Deicke Looks Like Leader

As the Primaries are drawing near, it is becoming more and more apparent, that Edwin F. Deicke is the most popular candidate for congress. The fact that he is a business man and Farmer and opposed by 4 lawyers seems to be very much in Deicke's favor.

Mr. Diecke is a clean-cut energetic young ex-service man, engaged in the insurance business and residing on a farm near Elmhurst in DuPage County.

He has the endorsement and support of many organizations, and was just recently endorsed by the Building Trades Council and Medical Society.

The Principal Plank in his platform is "Honesty is the best policy". In his speeches he is severely denouncing the existing state of Corruption in Public Offices. The most important qualification of any candidate for Congress should be absolute honesty.
